PROFIL

Well-founded development is my passion

It motivates me to shed light on issues together with customers. I want to understand the essence of the matter – what is the core of a problem? How does someone really tick? What is necessary to achieve sustainable growth? In order to support the development goals based on this in the best possible way, I combine structure and pragmatism with a lot of empathy and passion.

Due to my background in human resources, I am able to quickly familiarize myself with various business contexts and develop solutions. Openness and flexibility are my strong points. My curiosity about people and topics means that each day I tackle my work with a lot of motivation and enthusiasm.

In Assessment Centers and training sessions I convey confidence and create an atmosphere of trust, and I am at my happiest when I am able to pass on my passion for learning and development to the participants. Based on my experience with digital didactics, I am also successfully able to support development in virtual processes.
