PROFIL

Growth begins when you leave your comfort zone

I help people and organizations to identify and realize their true competence and untapped potential. This can be achieved if we confront our own emotions and inner and outer obstacles, and master the tasks at hand. I support people on this path as a coach, consultant, and trainer.

The world is changing rapidly. Breaking existing patterns and moving into the space of opportunities requires a lot of courage and working with the heart, hand, and mind. I support people and organizations in gaining new experiences in a creative way and in growing from them.

Finding inner balance in harmony with the organization I lead is increasingly becoming the key to sustainable success. I am grateful for the support of my peers and mentors and want to share my own growth with others.
