PROFIL

Fostering development with empathy and joy.

I am passionate about discovering potential and supporting personal development. It is very important to me to give space to different motives, strengths and areas of development in order to foster individual growth in the best possible way. For me, conveying the joy of learning and creating an atmosphere of trust are key components of successful development.

My experience in transformation and change management shapes the way I work: Openness and curiosity for different perspectives as well as the consideration of different needs are fundamental pillars of my philosophy and inspire me to develop tailor-made solutions for individuals and companies. Discovering innovative and digital touchpoints is particularly important to me, which is why I am happy to contribute my expertise of our Profil M tools.

Clients experience me as a structured and enthusiastic partner with an agile mindset who enjoys implementing their wishes and requests.
