PROFIL

Developing potential together

Growing up, I developed a passion for personal growth. Reflecting on myself, being courageous, stepping out of my comfort zone, and surpassing myself is what drives me.

It is fulfilling for me to be able to support other people in exactly these things today. I want to understand people, recognize their potential, and inspire them to grow personally. It is important to me that we meet each other impartially and on an equal footing.

In cooperation, you will experience me as someone who questions things, wants to understand needs, takes on new perspectives, and is honest and direct in equal measure. I firmly believe that diversity of viewpoints is essential for sustainable success. My personal standards and structured approach enable me to find effective solutions.
